

To Til and Arkadius,

Wow wow wow wow wow. What a two months. Every time I have tried to answer questions about the tour or reflect on them in writing the first word that comes to mind is Wow, in this case the first, second, third, fourth and fifth word.

So...

I believe there is an unspoken gift returned to any human that can give for the simple sake of giving and nothing more. To give for no personal or pre-thought self gain. I think much of the world now do things for ulterior motives and present themselves otherwise.

I think your project was one of the best experiences I have taken on in my life. It was like an observation field day for me in the sense that sometimes I was so taken back by the good, bad and at times ridiculous human behaviour that I could not speak. I was forever working things out and learning silently.

It was challenging and hard at times but such an exercise of truth that the rewards cannot compare.

I thank you for a number of things.

Thank you firstly for the opportunity to come here.

Thank you for giving me a place to give and re-instate the life choice I've made to be an artist... is there another choice?

Thank you for the inspiration and learning tools I observed from both of you in holding and carrying such a project. Fuck... what a job that must've been with some of the behavioural difficulties we experienced within the group as well as the difficulties out of our responsibility.

Thank you for the many laughs and boom boom boom wake ups. These bits fuelled the laughter that carried me into each day and night. I take these memories with me and will probably wake someone up myself like that one day, somewhere out there. We carry a little bit of your spirit with us Til.

Arek, thank you for your brilliant Intuition and real deal kindness! You're a human that I think is allowed to say what you think because you're pretty onto the truth in the small time I've known you. Thank you for being able to reach a friendship level with your cast but also being professional and remembering the common cause. You can do both, lots of people cannot.

I learned a lot from both of you and think in my future projects I will reflect on how you did it.

I think if I carry on I'll probably re-live the tour here and I think one Instant Acts 09 is enough for one lifetime...I will probably also miss my train.

09 was quite something.

GOOD ON YOU FOR EXISTING!

GOOD ON YOU FOR MAKING THIS PROJECT AND MAKING IT WORK.

Now go and have a brilliant festive season, because the world needs you and if you're happy, then you'll make more people happy...

You have the power.

BRINGING INTUITION BACK IN FASHION

Pardon the French but...

You're a Bunch of Brilliant Mother Fuckers.

(Or was that more Aussie?)
