Dear Til.

I hope all goes well with you. I was just looking at my 'bio' that you use to advertise the courses. It's a bit inaccurate and I told Petra ages ago that I'd send her corrections - but you know how easy it is to overlook things. However - I'm doing it now.

1. Those writers included Wole Soyinka and they were at the Royal Court Writer's Group, not the Studio.

2. You might add The Life Game to the impro forms invented as that game became well known in England recently. It true that I was Artistic director of the Studio but also an Associate Director of the Royal Court (with Bill Gaskill). I also founded the Theatre Machine Impro Group if that's worth mentioning. I'm Professor Emeritus of Calgary University, and I've a second book out also published by Alexander Verlag but I can't remember it's German title (it's in English now).

Looking forwards to seeing you again. Just off to Australia. Hope I survive the journey.

Best wishes
